Hate Crimes Bring Swift Response from Council

Hate crimes that have occurred here during the past week have brought a strong reaction from the Greenbelt City Council.

"Such behavior is intolerable," stated councilmembers on Wednesday morning as they learned of the incidents, adding that hate crimes "are unacceptable in our community."

Two nooses have been found in the vicinity of St. Hugh's School on Crescent Road. The second noose also included swastika graffiti nearby. The Greenbelt Police are investigating the incidents as hate crimes.

Anyone with information about these events is urged to call the Greenbelt Police at 301-474-7200. There is a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone involved in any of those actions.

Slots for Maryland Debated At Cheverly Meeting

by Ann Landry Lombardi

The Progressive Cheverly Club sponsored a debate on September 4 about the proposed amendment to the Maryland Constitution to legalize slot machines, primarily for funding public education.

Secretary Tom Perez, Maryland Department of Labor, Licensing and Regulation, outlined the expected advantages if the referendum is approved by voters on November 4. State Senator Paul Pinsky, District 22, discussed aspects of the proposal that would counter those objectives. The designated revenue distribution illustrates the referendum's divergent intent.

Ballot Question 2 is entitled "Video Lottery Terminals (Slot Machines) to Fund Education."

It would authorize the state to grant five video lotteries in specific locations in the counties of Anne Arundel, Cecil, Worcester and Alleghany plus Baltimore City and would limit the number of machines to 15,000. Any expansion must be approved by

In Favor of Slots

Perez described slots as designed to remedy the state's budget problem in order to build the needed schools and avoid a disproportionate impact on raising income taxes. He noted that a deficit inherited from the previous administration is projected to be $1.7 billion.

Metro Station Development Subject of FBI Scrutiny

by Thomas X. White

The Washington Post Metro several lobbyists and developers, Section news articles on Sunday, September 14 and Monday, September 15 covered an ongoing investigation into the Greenbelt David Jacobs, who has worked as Metro station development. Al- a lobbyist for the County Counthough the scope of the inves- cil; and Wilbert R. Wilson, who tigation was not clear, federal authorities are seeking information about a long list of lobbyists and developers involved in the

The investigation apparently involves past efforts to rezone the property and secure funding for a new interchange on the Beltway (I-95/495) to provide improved access to the development.

The Post articles described a Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) "sweep" across Prince George's County including raids on the home of former County Councilmember Thomas R. Hendershot: the office and home of County Fire Department official Lt. Colonel Karl L. Granzow, Jr.: and the offices of J. Michael Dougherty, the County Director of Finance.

According to the Post articles, federal authorities are interested in information about contacts with including Michael Arrington, who has been a lobbyist for one partner in the Greenbelt project; served as chairman of County Executive Jack B. Johnson's 2006 reelection campaign and, who based on Post sources, held a consulting contract with the developers of the Greenbelt project.

The FBI subpoenas also seek information on Patrick Ricker, a prominent Prince George's County real estate broker, and Daniel L. Colton, who was described as a vice-president of the company developing the site.

The Washington Post efforts to obtain information on the probe or comments from the various individuals named in the subpoenas were not successful. The only county official providing a comment was James Keary, a spokesman for County Executive Jack Johnson.

Keary referred to the federal investigation as another fishing expedition. He said that neither Johnson nor his top aides have engaged in any wrongdoing.

2008 Miss Greenbelt Winners Enjoy the Contest Experience

by Anne E. Carroll

After nearly two months of rehearsals, photo sessions, fundraisers and interviews, this year's Miss Greenbelt pageant contestants finally saw their winners chosen at the Labor Day Festival. Gabby Laxamana was crowned as the 2008 Miss Greenbelt, Molly Jankowski was chosen as Junior Miss Greenbelt and Kristen Beauchamp is the new Little Miss Greenbelt.

Each of the winners emphasizes how much she enjoyed getting to know the other girls in the competition and all three mention they particularly appreciate the pageant's emphasis on personal qualities like poise, gracefulness and what Laxamana calls "being comfortable with who you are." That focus on personality is something the pageant organizers emphasize and it shows in this year's winners.

Miss Greenbelt

Gabby Laxamana's title comes in her first contest. Although she had been asked to participate in the Miss Teen Philippine pageant, she never has because it's held in Virginia. Her interest in the Miss Greenbelt contest peaked when one of her friends became last year's Junior Miss Greenbelt. Her mom, Edith, emphasizes that Gabby wanted to enter not because she was intent on winning but because "she wanted the experience. She wants to try everything!"

Gabby's favorite part of the contest was getting to know the seven other contestants. "The girls were all so nice," she says. "We were very close - it didn't feel like we were competing."

The 16-year-old junior at Eleanor Roosevelt High School is looking forward to this year's events. She, Jankowski and Beauchamp will make about 20 or 25 appearances. Laxamana also will use her position as Miss Greenbelt to raise money for Reach Out and Read, a charity that encourages parents to read to their kids starting at a young age. The group pursues this mission in part by distributing books - "1.3 million books a year," Laxamana emphasizes.

Laxamana knew that she'd want her philanthropic work to involve reading, since she believes so strongly in the importance of reading to little kids. That's in part because her mom read to her when she was little. Her interest in reading also is reflected in her answer to her question from the judges about how she would improve Greenbelt. "I'd like to add to the collection at the library," she says, "and expand the library itself."

Her favorite subjects, though, are the sciences, particularly chemistry. She also likes to sing and act in musical theater. Her previous roles include parts in "Pirates of Penzance" last fall in Bowie, where she lives with her parents and her younger brother.

She was the little red-headed girl in "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" and will be Mr. Waldo in "Auntie Mame," currently in rehearsal. She'll probably have to wear a fake moustache, she laughs.

Laxamana is grateful for the support of her parents throughout the pageant. Since her mom works on weekends, her dad, Philip, took her to lots of the rehearsals. "He became 'Daddy' to everyone!" she says.

Her sponsors were her family and friends and she also received a good deal of support from the Philippine community. "It was very nice to see so many Filipinos at the parade," she said.

Junior Miss Greenbelt

Molly Jankowski's interest in the Miss Greenbelt pageant started when a friend of hers became Little Miss Greenbelt in 2005. The following year, Jankowski followed in her footsteps as Little Miss Greenbelt and she was thrilled to be able to compete in this year's Junior Miss Greenbelt contest, which featured 10 girls.

Jankowski, now 11, reports that she had a great time: "I loved it! I had so much fun!" Her enthusiasm - which also earned her the title of "Most Spirited" - stems from the fact that she made so many new friends during the pageant. "It was hard to compete with them," she says. "I didn't expect to win!"

Jankowski was thrilled to become Junior Miss Greenbelt this year because she had such a great time being Little Miss Greenbelt. Her favorite part of that year was going to appearances and meeting little kids – especially those who were so excited to meet "a princess!"

She also particularly enjoyed going to Schrom Fest and helping

Enjoyed Labor Day

I'm writing you so that your readers and/or residents will know how much I enjoyed my holiday visit to Greenbelt and participating in your Labor Day celebration. The parade, the music by The Hub Caps, the warmth and kindness of the many people it was my good fortune to meet was for me a joyous experience - an experience which I will treasure.

My own youth, many years ago, came to mind as I walked the streets of Greenbelt, a community much like my own in my native Massachusetts. I was accompanied by a friend, a former Greenbelt resident. I visited your museum and, being a history enthusiast, I found that experience to be very pleasurable as well as informative. I found the staff there to be very interesting and the docent who conducted our tour, in particular, to be very cordial.

I shall plan to visit Greenbelt again, hopefully soon but certainly for your 2009 Labor Day festivi-

Greenbelt, you're a delightful community of many fine people. I now make my home in Glen Burnie, where I am reasonably contented but I do wish that I had discovered you much earlier. Louis "Lou" Mello

Free Éclectique Film At Academy 8 Thurs.

The Éclectique Moving Images Series will present the documentary "Strictly Background" at the Academy 8 Stadium Theatres in Beltway Plaza Mall on Thursday, September 25 at 8 p.m. Admission is free.

This humorous and heartwarming film focuses on the actors that most often, by nature of their roles, go unnoticed. Both an in-depth look at the Hollywood system and a character-driven film, "Strictly Background" is a dynamic exploration of the pursuit of stardom and the real-life struggle to stand out. The film has won six festival awards and has screened internationally and at numerous film festivals across the U.S., including the Maryland Film Festival in Baltimore.

To view the trailer, visit the official film website at www. strictlybackground.com.

New Film Explores Adult Relationships

Penelope Cruz (Vicki Cristina Barcelona) and Ben Kingsley (House of Sand and Fog) star in "Elegy," opening Friday at the Old Greenbelt Theatre. Based on Philip Roth's novella "The Dying Animal," the movie charts the course of an affair between a college professor with commitment issues (Kingsley) and his student (Cruz). Dennis Hopper appears as Kingsley's monogamous friend (married to Debby Harry), which allows for a thorough examination of the complexities of adult relationships. Rated R for nudity, language and sexual situations, the film runs 108 minutes.

Explore Improved Movement Sept. 26

Explorations Unlimited will host a presentation by Gretchen Dunn, teacher of the SAGE "Improving Your Moving" course, on Friday, September 26. Dunn has an MA in occupational therapy (OT), is a Certified Movement Analyst and is trained in Laban Movement Analysis. She retired after 25 years of OT practice in the psychiatric field and has renewed her interest in movement work.

"Improve Your Moving" is based on the work of Rudolph Laban and Irmgard Bartenieff. It is geared to maintaining and improving one's physical status relating to the activities of daily living and is not geared toward dancing.

It is important for people to know how to get down to the floor and how to get up again, so the class always starts on the floor. People who may need assistance with getting down and up in the beginning find that after a few weeks they are able to do it by themselves. Issues of balance are important and are addressed in each class.

Explorations Unlimited is held every Friday from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Greenbelt Community Center. This presentation will be held in the Senior Classroom, Room 114. Everyone is welcome to attend and questions are encouraged. Call 301-397-2208 for more information.

In Memoriam Karen Zoellner

On August 29, 2008, Karen Ann Wege Zoellner left us.

Karen was born on June 13, 1963, and grew up in Calverton.

Olympics.

After finishing school, Karen was gifted with two sons, John and Jake, and they were the lights in her eyes. Her love for children was apparent in them and the many other children (her sons' friends) that would also call her "Mom." Having an always giving heart, she worked for the Montgomery County school system for 12 years, driving special needs children to and from school every day no matter what the weather. She understood how important school was for those ("her") children and cared for them dearly.

In 2000 she moved to Greenbelt with her husband Carl and her two sons. She was active with the Greenbelt Little League, earning the recognition of "Coach Mom" for her son's team, the Giants. She was always there to root the team on and flip a burger or two. For those living on Plateau Place, she was your News Review delivery person. And if you saw her, at a Little League game or delivering your paper, you could not have missed her smiling face and cheerful disposition.

She worshiped at Hope Fellowship Church in Greenbelt and knew for certain she would be in heaven one day. Her sons looked at her like a guardian angel and thank God that she met someone like Carl to love, relax with and share an enjoyable life.

Karen's free spirit, love for life and the sunshine of her smile will be missed by her lifelong friends from Calverton, many new friends in Greenbelt and loving family. We have all been blessed by her presence and friendship.

Remember that a warm fuzzy goes a long way . . . pass it on as she would.

In memory of Karen Ann Wege Zoellner. Warm fuzzies for everyone!

Bahá'í Teachings: How do we build unity and abolish hatred and prejudice?

We must bring our thoughts and actions in line with a belief in the oneness of humankind. When a thought of war enters our minds, immediately replace it with a thought of peace.

When a feeling of hate takes shape in our hearts, replace it with a feeling of love. Do everything possible to overcome prejudices, which are among the greatest obstacles to building a better world. The Bahá'í writings teach us how to walk in the ways of unity and help others take the same path.

GIVE THANKS

Learn About Islam

Every breath that we breathe is a blessing from God and we learn from the Prophet Solomon (peace be upon him) to recognize these blessings each day. The Holy Qur'an tells us how he never forgot to be thankful to God. He is quoted to have said, "This is by the grace of my Lord, to test me whether I am grateful or ungrateful! And if any is grateful, it is (a gain) for his own soul; but if any is ungrateful, truly my Lord is free of all needs, supreme in honor."

— The Holy Qur'an, 27:40

Count your blessings every day. For more information about gratefulness from an Islamic perspective, call 301-982-9463 or email info@searchislam.org or visit www.searchislam.org.

ATTENTION GREENBELT COMMUNITY!

In the last week, two nooses have been found in the vicinity of St. Hugh's School on Crescent Road. The second noose also included swastika graffiti nearby. The Greenbelt Police are investigating all these incidents as hate crimes.

Such behavior is intolerable! As the Greenbelt Community Pledge states:

"The strength of Greenbelt is diverse people living together in a spirit of cooperation.

We celebrate people of many cultures, faiths, and races living together.

By sharing together, all are enriched.

We pledge to foster a community which is respectful, safe, and fair for all people."

Anyone with information about these events is urged to call the Greenbelt Police at 301-474-7200. Information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone related to these events will receive a $500 reward.

Again, actions such as these are unacceptable in our community!

Notice of Charter Amendment Resolution No. 2008-1

At its regular meeting of September 8, 2008, the City Council adopted a resolution to amend the City Charter. As required by state law, this resolution will be posted in its entirety for 40 days, until October 18, at the Municipal Building, as well as on the City's Web site at www.greenbeltmd.gov. A copy may also be requested of the City Clerk. The charter amendment will be effective on October 28, 2008, unless a proper petition to submit the amendment to the voters on a referendum is filed as permitted by law. This notice is given to provide a fair summary of the resolution, as also required by state law.

A Resolution . . . to Amend the Charter of the City of Greenbelt . . . by Amending Paragraph (d), "Powers," of Section 12, Titled "Employee Relations Board" to Provide that the Employee Relations Board be Empowered to Hear Grievances Arising out of Collective Bargaining Agreements: Subsequent to a referendum question on the ballot of the 2005 City election, the City Council amended the City Code to include a Labor Code for the purpose of recognizing the right of certain police officers to organize and bargain collectively. The Labor Code requires that all collective bargaining agreements (CBAs) must include a grievance procedure containing a provision for binding decision by the City's Employee Relations Board (ERB). Since the existing powers of the ERB in grievance procedures were limited to making recommendations to the City Council, it was necessary to amend the charter to enable the ERB to address grievances arising out of CBAs as required by the Labor Code.

For additional information, contact Cindy Murray, City Clerk, at 301-474-8000 or cmurray@greenbeltmd.gov.

A progressive income tax was rejected by the General Assembly in the late 2007 session. Other recent attempts to increase Maryland funds, such as taxing computer services and a "millionaire" surtax, were rejected, he noted.

While Perez acknowledged that "slots have social costs" such as increased crime and addiction, slots revenue eases the tax burden. However, he warns, "There are studies that support both sides." The Charlestown, W.Va., data showed that the crime rate there dropped and jobs were created when slots were installed.

More income tax refunds of up to $165 occurred in Pennsylvania after slots legislation was enacted there; Charlestown estimates identify a 27 percent tax reduction in some categories. New jobs in Maryland may "mitigate the problems" that result here, he said.

Perez noted that the slots parlors in Delaware and West Virginia border locations presently attract Maryland slots players. The Maryland locations were chosen near those borders to encourage people to play here. Baltimore City is the fifth jurisdiction specified.

Perez offered that "53 percent of lottery money is returned to create alliances around a common good. Solutions satisfy progressive objections. There is a lot more in the issue than meets the

Pinsky recounted that the slots plan was initially sought by potential parlor owners and was later supported by the state to raise revenue to fund the Thornton education plan. The struggling Maryland race tracks were then linked to the effort.

"It's a scam!" Pinsky told his audience. He questioned the premise that slots will raise funds for the Maryland treasury. A suggestion that there would be new revenue from gamblers ignores the diminishing numbers of them in a declining economy. "The best return is to the house, not the gambler," Pinsky added.

In 2004 the General Assembly approved the Thornton plan to spend $1.3 billion over six years as additional funding for education. However, the plan had no dedicated funding source, thereby increasing the projected budget deficit. Pinsky noted that under the slots proposal, education programs would receive only 48.5 percent of the slots revenue.

While the operators would receive 33 percent, "there is no guarantee that the proportion of that money, however small, stays in the Maryland economy," Pin-

Pinsky noted that attendance no longer fills the Maryland racing stands; now betting machines to wager on out-of-state races fills those stands. The horse industry seeks increased purses hoping that attendance would improve. "This is public assistance to a private industry!" he argues. If the bill seeks to capture business from surrounding lottery operations in nearby states, he asserted the designation of Baltimore City defies that intention.

Other allocations of the proposed slots include 7 percent for racing purses, 2.5 percent to pay for track renovations by track owners, 5 percent to local communities near the tracks, 1.5 percent to the Small, Minority and Women-owned Business Account and 2 percent to the lottery agency that runs, advertises and encourages citizens to play. These allocations were decided by the Maryland legislature during the 2007 Special Session and Pinsky offered that those proportions could be altered by the General Assembly in two to three years.

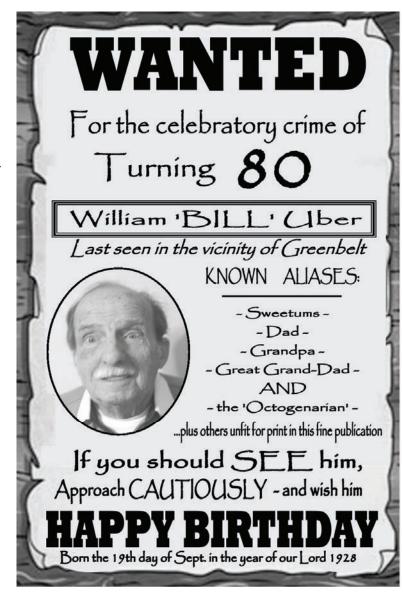

Debate

The legislation is a "marriage of convenience to solve money problems; it is a reaction to the decline in the economic climate,"

Perez stated.

"Citizenry doesn't come out on top when it is sponsored and promoted by industry," Pinsky concluded. "If the State of Maryland really wants to raise education funding with slot machines, it should operate them itself, rather than bringing in gaming companies."

The Stone Soup Project is an event planning group that is bringing music and arts events through the New Deal Café. These events are designed to raise awareness of local environmental issues through celebration and to emphasize the ideals and issues that confront us as the earth changes at this time of year, celebrating the changes from growing to hibernation and all the living that continues.

kids get their pictures taken, part of a safety project that ensures that parents have records available that will be helpful in case their children get lost. Jankowski loves working with little kids, she says.

Though Jankowski lives in Laurel, she spends a good deal of time in Greenbelt. She attends St. Hugh's Catholic School, where she is in seventh grade, plays volleyball and sings in the school choir. She's been going to Creative Kids Camp for seven years and this summer had a leading role in the play "Summer Circus."

She also went to Quest Camp, part of the summer Quest Program at Eleanor Roosevelt High School, where she had a great time with the other attendees building a model of a treehouse. She hopes one day to become a director of movies or advertisements.

In the meantime, she lives with her parents, five cats and a dog. She's particularly appreciative of her parents' support. She says her dad was her personal photographer and her mom went everywhere with her. Her sponsors were Nationwide Insurance and Marla 4 Pets.

Though Jankowski loved this year's "Once Upon a Dream" theme – she calls herself a huge fan of Disney and Cinderella – she's also realistic about her priorities. Her on-stage question from the judges was whether middle school girls are too young to have boyfriends. Jankowski said yes.

"At our age we need to focus more on academics," she says, "particularly because our grades from seventh grade and the first part of eighth grade are what high schools look at."

Little Miss Greenbelt

Kristen Beauchamp, 10, has been in the Little Miss Greenbelt contest twice before but hadn't won anything. She thinks her first two years helped her this year, though. "I understood the pageant more because of doing it before," she says. "This year, I was not just scared being up on stage. I was more used to it."

In addition to the title of "Little Miss Greenbelt," Beauchamp also won "Most Spirited." The enthusiasm and energy that award reflects came in part because she's been a fan of the pageant for so long. "I've watched the contest since the first year I lived here," she says. She was five when she, her brother and her mom Edith moved here from Pennsylvania.

In this year's contest Beauchamp had plenty of time to show her enthusiasm, given that practices started in July and ran through the end of August. That also gave her plenty of time to get to know the six other contestants, which she names as one of her favorite parts of the pageant, along with "being up there in that pretty dress!"

Beauchamp, who was sponsored by the Greenbelt Co-op Supermarket and Pharmacy, was particularly excited about the interview with the contest judges, says Edith, because one of them was Mayor Judith Davis.

Not long after the Beauchamps moved to Greenbelt, Kristen won an Easter basket, which was presented to her by Davis. "Kristen liked having a female mayor," Edith explains, "and ever since then, she's been really interested in the mayor."

Edith adds that she's "thrilled for Kristen; this has been her passion!" She's also really pleased at how many skills the pageant has helped her daughter develop, including interviewing and public speaking. The latter came into play when the girls had to introduce themselves and answer a question on stage at the festival.

Beauchamp got her favorite one, about extracurricular activities she'd like to be in. Her answer was that she'd like to "set up a math club to help other students who are having trouble with math."

Beauchamp may have the chance for such activities at St. Hugh's Catholic School, where she has just started fifth grade. She loves it, she says, particularly because "the teacher and the principal are really nice and the teacher works with you if you don't get it" – just like Beauchamp would like to do with other students.

Beauchamp's other interests include dancing and singing. A few weeks ago, she performed Abba's "I Have a Dream" at her church, Greenbelt Community Church. She also enjoyed going to summer camps in Greenbelt and acting in plays.

She particularly likes living here because there's so much of a sense of community and she's gotten to know a lot of people. She comes from a family with strong Greenbelt ties: her grandma, Virginia Beauchamp, is a long-time resident, a writer and editor for the Greenbelt News Review and the 2002 Greenbelt Outstanding Citizen. Beauchamp is quite happy, then, to be following her grandma's footsteps into the town limelight.

New Deal Art Features Emerging Local Artists

by Kristin Stenson, Arts Coordinator, New Deal Café

A group show will be held at the New Deal Café in September. On display will be the works of several young artists who are involved in the Greenbelt community. Paintings, drawings, photographs, as well as prints will be featured in this eclectic show. Each artist has a different style and new ideas and will be present at the opening to talk about their work. The reception for this show will be held from 7 to 9 p.m., on Sunday, September 21.

The participating artists include Gordon Davis, Ingrid Segarra, Andrea Wiggen, Kristin Stenson, Julia Wade, Graham Boyle and Alisha Perez. Most of the artists have worked at the New Deal Café at some point.

Davis and Boyle are frequent users of the Greenbelt skate park where Boyle taught skate classes for kids in the summer of 2007. Boyle works primarily with photography and printing. Davis is a musician who also works with mixed media.

Wiggen and Segarra enjoy both drawing and painting. Wiggen will exhibit oil and acrylic paintings of landscapes and birds. Segarra is an art student at Anne Arundel Community College. She spent this summer working at Creative Kids Camp teaching ceramics. She will exhibit some of her ceramic work at the opening reception.

Wade attends St. Mary's College and studies art and art history. She is particularly interested in book arts. Wade works with both dry and wet media and creates many works on a single subject.

Perez is a recent graduate of the University of Maryland, where she studied art and art history. Perez' work focuses on rendering specific themes in a unique and sometimes comical manner. She experiments with the creation of abstract designs and intricate patterns to create a multi-layered piece that can be interpreted in numerous ways.

Stenson studies art and art theory at the University of Maryland and is currently the arts coordinator for the New Deal Café. In this show she will exhibit photographs from her travels in Europe.

This exhibit is sponsored by Friends of the New Deal Café Arts with support from the Greenbelt Community Foundation.
